Viplove Chander Rao, a resident of Garacharma, Port Blair, holds a degree in Civil Engineering from Sathyabama University, Tamil Nadu. Recognizing a market gap in the local area, Mr. Rao, a young entrepreneur with keen business acumen, conducted a comprehensive market survey. His analysis revealed a notable absence of quality Men's Parlors in Garacharma. Perceiving this as a promising career avenue, he resolved to establish a venture in this domain.

However, the realization of his entrepreneurial vision necessitated financial support. Keeping abreast of current affairs through regular newspaper reading, Mr. Rao fortuitously came across the information about the Prime Minister's Employment Generation Programme (PMEGP) Scheme. Recognizing the alignment of this scheme with his aspirations, he promptly approached the District Industries Centre, Middle Point, where he obtained detailed guidance regarding its implementation. Subsequently, leveraging the financial assistance facilitated by Canara Bank, Garacharma, Mr. Rao successfully secured the requisite funding.

Expressing profound satisfaction with the subsidy benefits afforded by the PMEGP Scheme, Mr. Rao established the envisioned Men's Parlor in Garacharma. Today, his enterprise serves as an emblem of both entrepreneurial spirit and community engagement, providing gainful employment to three individuals within the locality. Reflecting on his journey, Mr. Rao succinctly articulated, "I identified a market gap and seized the opportunity."
